Mr William Champney's Infant 8 Oct. 22 9 0 A. 27 t What is here extraordinary to be remarked of this gentleman, is, that he was one of the most confulent persons, perhaps, in the country. - He weighed in March last 430 Lounds, and it is altogether likely that when he died he weighed much more. - His coffin was nearly two feet deep, and almost three feet across the shoulders. He was taked after his death and nearly two pailfuls of matter was extracted from him. -He left a widow, and one son. -

I The circumstances of Mr Jarker's death are remarkable.—
The and his brother Edward made a "shooting" as it is called, at bapt Benjamin Farker's house. - Dr. frosph Bullard with many others attended. - He fired his gun several times: - his gun, however, soon refused to go off, - and while he and Stilman Onthank were screwing in a new flint his gun immediately discharged, and the fatal ball entered said Farker's left ear and came out at his right eye.

He fell flat on the ground and, without a struggle or grown, expired in about three hours.
The was the son of Mr Josiah Parker of Lunenburgh, Ut.
